

How much larger can violations get after the reform?

How much can the underlying trend shift after the reform?

